NUMBER 303

The Maine Republicans are organizing for the campaign early next fall. They don't propose to be caught napping.

In committee of the whole the House Wednesday passed the Indian appropriation bill amounting to $4,920,203, which is $351,090 more than last year's appropriation and $900,000 less than asked for.

On the first day of the month Mr. Keyes turned over the Madison postoffice to his successor—General George E. Bryant. Mr. Keyes has held the office as postmaster twenty-one years, and during all that time in which he handled many hundreds of thousands of dollars, there has not been the loss of a single dollar.

The immigration of Chinese still troubles California, and the State is growing restless at the dilatoriness of Congress in dealing with the matter. Urgent appeals are made by the papers of the State, that a limitation be at once placed upon Chinese immigration. Unless this is done it is claimed that 40,000 Chinese will be landed in San Francisco during the next six months.

Ex-Governor Fairchild, of this State, will reach Madison this afternoon. Since he left the State in 1872 to take the Liverpool consulate, he has received marked honors from the Government of the United States. He became Consul General at Paris, then Minister to the Spanish Court, and resigned the latter position because he did not want it. They will tender him a reception at Madison this evening.

When President Garfield nominated Robertson for Collector of the Port of New York, Mr. Conkling said to the President: "Send him abroad to some second-class consulate; and I will go into the lobby, and hold my nose while he is confirmed." There are a good many Senators, it seems, Republicans as well as Democrats, who feel like holding their noses while Mr. Conkling is confirmed as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court.

There is a likelihood that the Senate bill restoring capital punishment will be concurred in by the Assembly. The Judiciary committee of the latter body reported 5 to 4 in favor of the bill as follows:

Ayes—Pierce, Estabrook, Winans, Shepherd, and Borchardt.

Noes—McBride, Harrington, McBridge and Keyes.

It is said there will be a stubborn fight on the bill when it will come up for engrossment, but the opinion is that it will be concurred in.

So far the Apportionment committee at Madison have done nothing. Among all the plans proposed, there is hardly a congressional district which gives satisfaction to everybody concerned. A dispatch to the Milwaukee Sentinel gives this coloring to the situation: "After nearly six weeks of figuring and preparing, the Committee practically are but little nearer the end of their work than when they started. There is no plan yet devised against which there is not some kicking, either from members of the committee or of the Legislature. The reason for this is that the apportionment is to be made by a number of embryo congressmen. To further the success of their aspirations, attempts are made to group counties which don't nor won't group. When or how it will end is somewhat uncertain, unless a number of determined men will make an apportionment that approaches to fairness as near as can be, and then force it through."

We note from the Madison Democrat that the Senate killed the bill on Tuesday morning, which provided for the erection of public watering places. The provisions of the bill were that any person who would erect by the public highway a public watering place, and who would keep the same in good repair should be allowed $6 annually on highway taxes. It also provided that such watering places should not be nearer each other than one mile. For no good reason, at least none was given in the Senate, the bill was killed. It would seem that the bill could have been amended if its provisions were out of the way, but there was no attempt made to thoroughly consider the subject and give it that attention which it deserved. There is some truth in the statement of the Democrat that "it is hard to drive three miles on any public highway in all New England without finding a convenient watering place, and yet it is equally hard to find such a place in a week's drive in this State. Any person who has driven a team in New England and anywhere in the West, cannot but have noticed the great lack of suitable watering places in the West, and the great inconveniences caused by this want." If the Wisconsin Legislature could give such a question as this—one in which farmers and the public in general are equally interested—quarter as much thought as they do some unimportant political question, there would be wiser and more wholesome legislation.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Special to the Gazette.

ASSEMBLY.

MADISON, March 2.—In the assembly a bill authorizing a chief clerk in the office of the superintendent of public instruction was concurred in.

Bills were passed for the prohibition of the sale of diseased cattle in the State.

Bills passed to protect children from abuse or criminal neglect.

A bill appropriating $2,000 dollars to the widow of Sheriff Coleman of Pepin Co., who was killed by the notorious Williams or Maxwells, was ordered to a third reading.

The bill passed appropriating $1,800 to the widow and orphans of Joseph H. Baker, sheriff of Portage county who was killed by the Courtwright desperadoes, in 1875.

SENATE.

In the Senate the joint resolution was adopted giving twenty-five additional copies of the Blue Books to Senators.

The bill passed levying a tax of two dollars on male and five dollars on female dogs.

CONKLING AND SARGENT.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—In executive session of the Senate the nomination of Conkling to be associate justice was reported from the Judiciary committee with a recommendation to be confirmed. It was placed upon the calendar in accordance with the rule, which requires all reported nominations to lie until the next succeeding executive session. No request was made for unanimous consent to suspend this rule and nothing said in regard to the nomination except the announcement by Mr. Teller (in the absence of Chairman Edmunds) that the committee had authorized him to report favorably.

The nomination of ex-Senator Sargent as Minister to Germany, was also placed on the calendar with favorable recommendation of the committee on foreign relations.

CYCLONE.

GALVESTON, Texas, March 1.—The News Valley Mills special says a severe cyclone struck that place last night, almost completely destroying the town, only one business house being left standing. Brinkman's hotel, a two-story building, was carried some distance and smashed to pieces. There were ten persons in the building at the time of the accident, and all were injured, but none seriously. There was no loss of life, but the damage to property is heavy.

DICTIONARY WAR.

MADISON, March 1.—The effort which was made in the Assembly this morning to open the purchase of dictionaries by the State to competition, met with even poorer success than the attempt made in the Senate yesterday. Mr. Clarke's bill, which in its amended form authorized the purchase of any standard dictionary, did not receive the support of more than a dozen members. All the old arguments were made against the bill. It would bring confusion into the public schools, without getting a better dictionary, and perhaps not for any less money. Webster is now furnished to the State as cheaply as it need be. In addition, the State could if the Clarke bill passed, procure Swart's Dictionary, which is recognized as the standard work in England. Then we would have a dictionary which spells favor and honor with a "u." The friends of the bill pleaded in vain for the adoption of the correct business principle of competition in buying dictionaries as well as anything else. It was no use; they were not numerous enough to even second the call for the eyes and noses, and the bill was indefinitely postponed by a four-fifths vote.

WILL HE ACCEPT?

WASHINGTON, March 1.—A morning paper published to-day a sensational report to the effect that ex-Senator Conkling had declined the nomination to the Supreme Court. It was given with such a circumstantial air, that some were deceived by it, but later it was alleged to be published with a purpose hostile to Mr. Conkling. The friends of the latter stoutly maintained that it could not be possible that a gentleman so sensitive to proprieties as he could have declined a nomination before it was within his reach. It proved to be a canard. Your correspondent is authorized to state that no declaration of the proposed appointment by Mr. Conkling has reached the executive, neither has any member of the judiciary committee of the Senate received the least intimation of such an intention on the part of the ex-Senator.

A friend of Mr. Conkling's said to-day that Mrs. Conkling was desirous that he should accept the place, and he thought he would do so. On the other hand, a gentleman who recently saw Mr. Conkling, expressed doubts on the subject. At any rate there is no doubt of his confirmation, and then Mr. Conkling will be heard from promptly. Until then, however, he will neither decline nor accept.

A WISCONSIN MURDER.

KEAUWNEE, March 1.—An approaching suit for slander has had the effect to lift the veil from a murder perpetrated some three years ago, which had remained a mystery. About that time John Goettinger was found in the town of Ahnapee, burned almost beyond recognition, with marks upon his person showing that he had been foully dealt with. Jacob Blarnek was arrested on suspicion, but cleared by the coroner's jury for want of evidence, and the matter was lost sight of. A few days ago a man named John Barta declared that Blarnek's wife, who was the victim's daughter, had perpetrated the deed. The legal machinery was immediately set in motion to begin a suit against Barta for slander, when Jacob Kozma, a man in Blarnek's employ, comes to the front with a full confession, in which he charges that Mrs. Goettinger and Mrs. Blarnek stabbed Goettinger with a pitchfork, and then attempted to burn the body. The two women were arrested and bound over for trial at the April term.

DREADFUL DISTRESS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 1.—A special to the Appeal from Helena, Ark., says: "The river did not rise to-day as expected; on the contrary, there was a decline from yesterday of one inch. The flood from the hills caused a rise near the shore, and as it passed off there was of course a fall. The river, from water above, began rising to-night again and will continue. A big break is reported in the levee, just below Concordia, which occurred yesterday, and the people are panic-stricken. Four negroes and one white man were drowned. C. W. Blackburn, of Canebrake Circle, arrived to-day, and is negotiating for a steamer to remove stock and people from that flooded district. He says many negroes are starving, and others are feeding on putrid carcasses of drowned cattle and such game as can be procured. Whole families are subsisting on a half peck of meal per week. The people of this section are offering milk cows for 25 cents per head, as the poor beasts are dying from water starvation. Mr. Blackburn will move his family, hands, stock, and all moveable effects to a plantation back of Helena till water subsides. Distress all along the river below is unparalleled. News reached this city this afternoon that the water in the St. Francis River bottom is rising one inch per hour. This, if true, will put us to thinking before the week has passed."

George Meredith, Jersey City, writes: "The Spring Blossom you sent me has had the happiest effect on my daughter; her headache and depression of spirits has vanished. She is again able to go to school, and is as lively as a cricket. I shall certainly recommend it to all my friends. Price 50 cents, trial bottle 10 cents. For sale by A. J. Roberts and Sherer & Co.

A LA CROSSE LOVER.

CHICAGO, March 1.—The breach of promise case of Dora Apple against Nathan A. Stone, for $20,000 damages, opened in Chicago to-day. The plaintiff is a petite blonde, 16 years old, of modest and attractive appearance, of this city. Mr. Stone is a young business man of La Crosse, Wis., engaged in the notions line. Both are of the Jewish persuasion. There are five counts to the plaintiff's narrative, the principal one of which is that Mr. Stone promised, on the 24th of April, 1881, to marry Miss Apple on the 25th of September, which he refused or failed to do. A number of letters from the defendant to his fiancée, showing various stages of love's fluctuations, were read by the plaintiff's attorney, to the amusement of the jury. One of them modestly upbraided the plaintiff for riding in the street cars on Saturday, reports of which violation of the Hebrew Sunday obligation appears to have been the entering wedge to an estrangement which culminated in breaking off the nuptials.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

ROCHESTER, Ind., March 1.—A Miss Brossmer, of this place, a handsome and well-connected young lady, last night exchanged her petticoats for pantaloons and was making a round of the gambling and drinking places when the City Marshal arrested her in Cornelius' saloon and placed her in jail. She saw the sights, and expressed herself as well pleased with the evening's adventure, notwithstanding the unexpected result.

DON'T LIKE IT.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 1.—The Trades Assembly at a regular monthly meeting to-night made a vigorous protest against a proposed legislative act which is designed to make amendable to the Vagrancy law all persons who refuse to work for regular wages being paid to other laborers in like work in any city or village of the State. The proposed law would apply to strikers. The union men here say that its passage would drive good mechanics from the State and keep them from settling here.

EX-GOV. FAIRCHILD.

MADISON, March 1.—To-morrow afternoon ex-Governor Lucius Fairchild will return home from Spain. He will be received at the depot by a military procession, and a reception will follow at the Park hotel, with speeches by Colonel William F. Vilas and Colonel E. A. Calkins.

NOT WILD ON OSCAR.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, March 1.—Oscar Wilde's lecture here to-night was so far as the audience was concerned, a ridiculous failure. Less than 200 were present, and they were very little interested in what he said. He appeared on the platform alone clad in his usual costume of knee-breeches. The manager is not heavily on his venture.

HOUSEKEEPERS' HELP.

No soap that injures the hands should ever be used for clothing: it is sure to do harm in the end.

HOUSEKEEPERS who have never tried it will be surprised to see how a large pinch of salt in the water potatoes are boiled in will improve them: old potatoes may be made almost mealy and delicious by this simple process.

TO SET COLORS IN A LAWN DRESS.—To set the colors in a lawn dress, put it in a pail of water and a tablespoonful of sugar of lead. Let it steep an hour, then wash it out of bran water; hang it in the shade to dry.

LADY FINGERS.—Four ounces of sugar, yolks of four eggs, mix well four ounces of flour, mix again; if too thick add another whole egg, a half teaspoon of flavoring. Beat whites to a froth and stir in. Squeeze through a flannel made of writing paper. These are used for Charlotte russe.

LEMON PIE.—Two eggs, juice and grated outside of one lemon, one cup sugar, one cup boiling water. Save the white of one egg for frosting. Beat eggs, lemon, sugar, and a teaspoonful of flour together, turn on this mixture the hot water, boil in dish of water; bake crust separate.

STAINS on marble if produced by smoke may be thus removed: Moisten powdered quick lime with a strong solution of washing soda in hot water; brush this over the stone and let it dry. Brush off, wash with plenty of water, and polish with rotten stone on polishing powder.

PICKLING BERRIES.—Heat the amount of vinegar required, sweeten, then turn in the berries, let heat through, then turn into a jar and set in a cool place. Simple, but I think they are much better than to spoil the berry flavor with spices. One lady acquaintance, in canning berries, never heats her cans. Setting them on a marble, she pours the scalding fruit into them, and says she never breaks a can that way, as the cans heat gradually from the bottom.

FAVORITE MEAT PIE.—Take cold roast beef or meat of any kind, slice it thin, cut it rather small, lay it, wet with gravy, and sufficiently peppered and salted, in a meat pie dish. If liked, a small onion may be chopped fine and sprinkled over it. Over the meat pour a couple of stewed tomatoes, a little more pepper, and a thick layer of mashed potatoes. Bake slowly in a moderate oven till the top is a light brown.

FRUIT PIE.—A simple thing to speak of, but if all ladies have their pies "run out" as I have, they will not think a remedy so simple after all. For raspberry, strawberry, juicy green apple, etc., spread the upper crust with butter, then sprinkle thickly with sugar, then put the fruit under the berries, then flour; sprinkle with sugar again, and bake slowly. By this means one can have the goodness of the pie in the pie, instead of the oven.

TO SEW TOMATOES.—Take ten large tomatoes, put them into a pan, and pour scalding water over them to remove the skins easily; peel them and cut out all the hard or unripe portion; then cut through and take out the seeds. Boil an onion and mash it fine; add to the tomatoes, with pepper and salt to your taste, and a piece of butter as large as the egg. Put them on to stew in an earthen pipkin, and let them simmer two hours. A quarter of an hour before dinner is ready add four or five tablespoonfuls of grated bread, and let it stew till ready to serve.

DEMONIO PUDDING.—One quart of sweet milk; the yolks of five eggs; three tablespoonfuls of corn starch, mixed smooth in half a teaspoonful of milk; a teaspoonful of sugar and any flavoring liked. Bring the milk to the boiling point, stir in the corn starch, then the sugar, and lastly, eggs. Draw to the back of the range and let thicken for two or three minutes. Be very careful not to burn. Turn into a pudding dish and bake about a half an hour. Beat whites to a stiff froth; stir in four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar; flavor; spread over the pudding and return to the oven to brown.

The animal carries his tail at the opposite extremity from his head; a man carries his tale in his mouth. And thus does many a man make both ends meet. It is learned from the Salt Lake Herald.

"WILLIAM, you have again come up unprepared!" "Yes, sir." "But from what cause?" "Laziness, sir." "John-son, give William a good mark for uprightness." "Bates, you proceed." "I have not prepared, too, sir." "But why not?" "From laziness, sir." "Johnson, give Bates a bad mark for plagiarism!"

The young Positivists are multiplying. Passing a group of children the other evening, we heard a little girl of a dramatic turn of mind remark to a little boy persistently: "Now, you are a bad angel, aren't you?" "No," was the dignified rejoinder. "I ain't a bad angel and I ain't a good angel. There's no such things as angels, anyway."

BACKWOODS preacher once elucidated as follows in connection with the parable of the virgins: "In ancient times, my beloved hearers, it was the custom, after a couple had been married, for ten virgins to go out with lighted lamps and meet 'em on the way home, five of these virgins being males and five females."—Buffalo Express.

JONES is proud of his wife, and with reason, for Mrs. Jones is pretty as well as smart. She was lecturing on temperance reform, and got naturally worked up as she rehearsed the many things that should be done, but which nobody seemed ready to do. "Oh dear!" she exclaimed, "I wish I were a man!" "I object!" exclaimed Jones, rising from his seat. It brought down the house.

CRUELTY.—She—"Of course you went to Monsieur Renan's lecture on Marcus Aurelius?" He—"No, I didn't. Who's Marcus Aurelius?" She—"Why, a Roman Emperor, to be sure, and a stoic!" He—"Haw—what's a stoic?" She—"A stoic? Well, at all events, Marcus Aurelius was one—at least he didn't go so far as most stoics." He—"Didn't he? How far do they go?" She—"What a ridiculous question!" "OUR hearts, our thoughts, our very beings grow tender with age," said the poet, thoughtfully. "Yes," said the new boarder, with a passionate gleam of intelligence in his mild, blue eyes, "but then we are not hens." Nobody laughed very much except the landlady. She seemed to enjoy it immensely, but when the pudding was brought in it was noticed that the new boarder got all the crust and none of the "dope," so it was generally thought that Mrs. McKerrel had dissembled.

H. A. PATTERSON, P. M.

A Good Old Man.
"You see, my children," he said, as a little group huddled around him, "there is no habit that you can not rid yourself of if you are resolved. Now, in my early youth I was a sailor, and contracted the popular habit of swearing at everything and nothing. Without provocation I would rattle off a string of oaths and violate the commandment a hundred times a day. When I left the sea my mother's early teaching returned to me, and I mentally resolved that I would never swear again. That was forty years ago, and I have never violated the promise I made myself. Some of you have little habits which you can easily rid yourself of; promise me now, my dearies, that you will call up your worst habit and drop it to-night."
The promises were readily given, and then came calls for a story. It was his habit to supplement his little lecture by stories.
"Tell us a story of the sea," lisped a little voice.
The old man smiled, and picked up a conch from the hearth.
"Well, little beauty, I will tell the shell tell it."
He placed it to his ear, closed his eyes, and said:
"Hark! I hear the sea. It is the Mediterranean, and before me is a ship plunging upon the stormy waves. The crew are huddled about in terror, and the vessel plunges along in the lightning- rent, with no hand at the helm. But there is one form that trembles not. It stands at the bow with upturned face, gazing into the heavens."
"Oh, that's Paul, I know," exclaimed a childish voice.
"Right again, my child. Inspired by a divine faith, he stands unmoved in the night; neither fear nor pain can move him. He is a true man, and—"
The old man paused; the shell dropped from his hand, and a look of startled inquiry came over his face. He sprang to his feet and danced a cancan in the room; he called on his patron saint and swore a string of oaths thirteen feet long as he bent the air with discordant shrieks; the women screamed; the children cried; the police came, and four neighbors at last bore him to the floor and sat upon him, while another removed with a pair of compasses a bug from his ear.
One little cockroach, hid in a shell, had upset the resolutions of forty years' standing.

MISCELLANEOUS.
A Good Old Man.
"You see, my children," he said, as a little group huddled around him, "there is no habit that you can not rid yourself of if you are resolved. Now, in my early youth I was a sailor, and contracted the popular habit of swearing at everything and nothing. Without provocation I would rattle off a string of oaths and violate the commandment a hundred times a day. When I left the sea my mother's early teaching returned to me, and I mentally resolved that I would never swear again. That was forty years ago, and I have never violated the promise I made myself. Some of you have little habits which you can easily rid yourself of; promise me now, my dearies, that you will call up your worst habit and drop it to-night."
The promises were readily given, and then came calls for a story. It was his habit to supplement his little lecture by stories.
"Tell us a story of the sea," lisped a little voice.
The old man smiled, and picked up a conch from the hearth.
"Well, little beauty, I will tell the shell tell it."
He placed it to his ear, closed his eyes, and said:
"Hark! I hear the sea. It is the Mediterranean, and before me is a ship plunging upon the stormy waves. The crew are huddled about in terror, and the vessel plunges along in the lightning- rent, with no hand at the helm. But there is one form that trembles not. It stands at the bow with upturned face, gazing into the heavens."
"Oh, that's Paul, I know," exclaimed a childish voice.
"Right again, my child. Inspired by a divine faith, he stands unmoved in the night; neither fear nor pain can move him. He is a true man, and—"
The old man paused; the shell dropped from his hand, and a look of startled inquiry came over his face. YOU CAN TRAVEL 4000 MILES
ILLINOIS, WISCONSIN, IOWA, MINNESOTA and DAKOTA.
OVER THE ROADS OF THE CHICAGO, MILWAUKEE & ST. PAUL RY CO.,
Without doubling on your tracks. This magnificent system reaches almost every important TOWN, CITY and SUMMER RESORT in the GREAT NORTHWEST. It includes the only Through unbroken lines owned by any one Company. Between Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and from there to the coast, connections are made to the most picturesque and scenic resorts of the world.
MISSISSIPPI VALLEY ROUTE.
Between St. Louis and North-Western. It also includes the THROUGH ROUTE between ALL the Terminal Points shown upon this Map, with ample passenger train service upon each.

Remember, this Company OWNS all Roads shown above in heavy lines.
Reference to the Official Railway Guides or the Time Tables published by the Company, will show that the C. & N. W. R. Co. can take you in its Splendid Passenger Trains, at Express Speed, over its own Superb Tracks, FROM almost anywhere TO almost anywhere in the Five Great States named above.
ITS ROAD-BED, SUPERSTRUCTURE AND EQUIPMENTS COMBINE ALL MODERN IMPROVEMENTS, AND ARE PERFECT IN EVERY PARTICULAR.
It runs its own MAGNIFICENT SLEEPERS upon all Through Trains, and its own PARLOR CARS are second to the world.
ITS RAILROAD HOTELS AND DINING HALLS are noted for their superior excellence. While it connects the prominent Business Centres of the Northwest, it has also upon its lines more Health and Pleasure Resorts and greater Scenic Attractions than any other system of roads upon the continent. Its magnificent New Union Depot, on Madison, Canal and Adams Streets, Chicago, is the most elegant and commodious Passenger Station in the United States.
It is conducted by the Traveling Public, to be in all things, THE LEADING LINE.

THIS NEW AND CORRECT MAP
Proves beyond any reasonable question that the CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RY
is by all odds the best road for you to take when traveling in either direction between Chicago and all of the Principal Points in the West, North and Northwest.
Carefully examine this Map. The Principal Cities of the West and Northwest are Stations on this road. Its through trains make close connections with the trains of all railroads at junction points.
THE CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.
Over all of its principal lines, runs each way daily from two to four or more Fast Express Trains. It is the only road west of Chicago that uses the PULLMAN HOTEL DINING CARS.
It is the only road that runs Pullman Sleeping Cars North or Northwest of Chicago. It has nearly 3,000 MILES OF ROAD. It furnishes the following Trunk Lines:
"St. Paul City, Denver & California Line." "Winona, Minnesota & Central Dakota Line." "St. Paul City, North-Western & Jackson Line." "Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis Line." "St. Paul, Minneapolis & Northern Line." "Milwaukee, Green Bay & Lake Superior Line." Tickets over this road are sold by all Coupon Ticket Agents in the United States and Canada.
Remember to ask for Tickets via this road, be sure they read over it, and take none other.

JOTTINGS AND CLIPPINGS.
It isn't what goes in, but what comes out of the inkstand that makes trouble.
REHOBOTH was the favorite summer resort of the American Indians four hundred years ago.
CHICAGO has 716 miles of sidewalks, 322 miles of public sewers, and 443 miles of water mains. The Commissioner of Public Works there estimates that the city wastes $1,000,000 annually on political loafers as public employees.
M. ZOLA has no great opinion of the rewards of authorship. He says that whereas a successful play running 100 nights bring to the theatrical treasury $80,000, and into the author's pocket $8,000, or five examples in the past fifty years can be found of a book bringing the writer so large a sum.
A FRIEND of Clara Bagnal, of Toronto, caused himself to represent a ghost, and presented himself before her. She was of a nervous temperament, and the shock proved too much for her. She fell in a fit, only to wake a raving maniac. For six years she was bereft of reason, and now she is dead.
CHICAGO has a new industry—an hospital for diseased and orphan birds. Mrs. A. F. Moir is the chief physician and matron of the institution, and is also head nurse and instructor-in-chief to young birds. There are medical, surgical, and obstetric wards, an asylum for the blind, and an orphan department.
A FOLDING chair factory in Newburg is a monument to the pluck and sagacity of its owner, who though he is totally blind, and has been for many years, and had nothing to start on, has built up an establishment which now employs fifty hands and sends goods to all parts of the country.
It is reported that the development of the German army is in danger of being checked for want of officers. Notwithstanding the good pay and great glory which the military career affords, the classes from which the officers are drawn no longer furnish a full supply of good material. The remedy is easy. Promote from the ranks.
The editor of Punch gets $7,500 a year. The position is a difficult one. He has to discard everything that is funny and witty, and prepare a sort of humorous wag, weak enough for those who, Tamematically speaking, have carefully abstained from mirth and can't stand anything strong. The work is worth the money.—Andrew's Queen.
A PARIS merchant who has been several times robbed by unfaithful cashiers, has invented an infallible test of competency. The cashier presents himself, offers his services, shows his reference. Then the merchant: "Show me how you would erase a mistake in your figures." The aspiring cashier gets to work with scraper, ink eraser, and what not, and it he succeeds in destroying all trace of the erasure, he is invited to take his hat and leave.
It is generally supposed that the bronze cents and the nickel five cent pieces are worth intrinsically the value marked upon their faces. Very wrong. The Bronckoning nickel $2 per pound the five cent piece is worth a cent and a quarter. It weighs seventy-seven grains and a fraction. The proportions in the composition of it are 75 per cent. of copper and 25 per cent. of nickel. Copper is reckoned at forty-three cents per pound. If, then, a nickel five cent piece is lost, the government clears three and one-half cents on the issue.
The contract has been given out for the Western monument to Oliver and Oakes Ames. It will cost $80,000, and will be put up at Sherman, Wyoming Territory, at a place about 400 miles west of Omaha, the highest point in the Rocky Mountains, which is crossed by the railroad. The monument is to be fifty feet square at the base, and sixty feet high, pyramidal in outline, with three slopes. The material will be Black Hill granite. There are to be two mchillions representing the heads of Oliver and Oakes Ames. One will face the east and the other the west, at a height of 10 feet from the ground. A town hall is a building at North Easton, Mass., a memorial of the Ames brothers.
The Episcopal Church at North Hill, Md., is a two hundred years old; the communion service is of silver, richly classed and presented by Queen Anne, and among the records there is a book with the names of all the bachelors of the parish who paid a tax (for the privilege of single blessedness.) Year by year the list decreased, till at last but twenty remained and it finally fell into disuse. There is an old manor house (deserted now, except by swallows, who build their nests in the eaves and chimney,) of which many people remember stories by their grandparents of dinner parties and stately entertainments given at "Brierton Hall," when carpets were laid down the broad flights of steps that the ladies might enter without endangering the satin of their robes.
What He Had Done.
A local Talmage held a series of meetings near Amsterdam, Boletour County, Va., in which he was quite successful. At the closing service of the meetings he spoke of "the great ingathering of souls" as a place of "little tendency to religion;" whence he had heard only leaves could come. Walking rapidly back and forth, gesticulating furiously, he woke the echoes for miles around. Waving his hands above the congregation, he shouted: "I have done a good work here! I am like the celebrated Napoleon who upon an occasion of great success exclaimed, 'Sic semper tyranni—I came, I saw, and I conquered!'"
